TEPR Announces Award Winners for 2003

Selection panel relies on leadership of Quammen Group CEO

Winter Park, Fla. – May 12, 2003 – The Quammen Group, a full-service healthcare consultancy, today announced its CEO Rebecca Quammen led a 15-judge panel in selection and presentation of the 2003 TEPR Awards. Winners were presented first, second and third place honors during the 19th annual TEPR (Toward an Electronic Patient Record) Conference in San Antonio on May 10, 2003.

The annual TEPR Awards recognize 24 outstanding healthcare information system solutions in eight categories. The independent panel of judges reviewed application information and customer testimony, scoring entries based on such merits as decreasing administrative costs, improving patient care through better staff access to electronic records, and increasing patient satisfaction with administrative processes.

“I was honored to again serve the organization as TEPR’s Lead Judge,” said Quammen. “The award-winning solutions may well serve to streamline system selection and implementation for today’s professionals interested in developing electronic healthcare.”

This is the fourth year for TEPR Awards, and the second consecutive year Quammen has headed the judging panel, which included six physicians. The 2003 award categories are: Practice Management Systems-Physician Offices; Document Imaging Solutions for Hospitals; Wireless Solutions for Hospitals, Wireless Solutions for Physicians Offices; EMR Systems for Small Hospitals; EMR Systems for Medium/Large Hospitals; EMR Systems Small/Solo Practice and EMR Medium/Large Practices. All 24 winners are listed on the Medical Records Institute website at www.medrecinst.com.
